We lived in the dormitories with the students on campus. There were problems there we had been kind of an insular, poverty-stricken ghetto. Living on campus the same college house, so watching them struggle there and deal with black people on a day-to-day basis didn't really change that part of it was just the interpersonal relationships. I had never lived with other people or lived in a house like that. I always thought that I was going to teach them all how to read music...how I had very mixed feelings from my parents. The music in the 60s was not the place you would want to send Mississippi in the 60s was not the place you would want to send your daughter.

They started hearing voices from others about what was going on in Mississippi. Working with blacks at that point in Mississippi I was very much interested in what he was doing in terms of developing a sense of charmless or being the... other...such as when you are in the outgroup or when as developing a sense of charmless or being the... other...such as when you are in the outgroup or when as

THEME ANALYSIS

Phillip Paul Harris (PPH) I probably lost a couple of friends because I was more willing to \[\text{was right}\]

I didn't go abroad and spend by my conscience and what I thought learned not so much to worry about what other people thought about I learned to not be quite so shy and timid as I had been. I probably

If I had any music most of it was based on either in Nashville or in Denver was music most of it being in other places. I discovered a whole world of popular some other classical things, I discovered a whole world of popular like the Elvis book and things I thought would appeal to them and the music was incredible. I went down with things each other. The music was incredible. I went down with things of an extracurricular thing for socializing so we'd all get to know of an extracurricular thing for socializing so we'd all get to know

I suspected they thought that the music was going to be kind they would learn how to study, how to spend their time wisely, how

The focus of the STEP Program was to build their study skills so pretty good at making sure I was there that I was probably insulting some of the people who were doing a did as well as I did because I can't help myself and he thought better at one point in other years. I did the best he was supposed that I when he was supposed that I

We were expected to raise enough money to pay our own way. My know as friends.

to meet people because those were suddenly people that I came to

It made me pretty angry and I thought there had to be a better way situation that you happen to be in convinced that education was the key to getting out of whatever big thing that I had done at that point and I became thoroughly learning I was. Probably because it was the most interesting of my senior year. I did not go, and then again my senior year of educate. Learning experience.

But it was definitely a part of not only my formal education but a Learning experience. I probably learned much more than I ever thought.
And I hope somebody somewhere repels this kind of project.

I think it needs to be done then. I might just step up and go ahead.

I think it's a need that needs to be addressed and somebody might see them or somebody might not think properly of who are afraid of things because somebody might not like it or and I find myself to be somewhat upset and concerned by people of new friends by being willing to look past the color.